

Open Houses, Info Sessions, and Applications - Oh My!

Hello Prospective Families, Educators, & Disability Professionals,

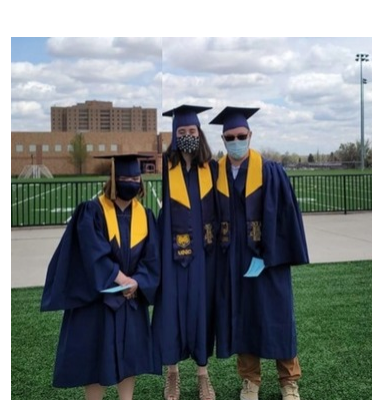

We are passing along information for students interested in attending an inclusive higher education (IHE) program in the coming fall. If you have a student with an intellectual/developmental disability (IDD) - this email is for you. And, for all the teachers and other disability professionals out there, we hope you will forward this email to the families you serve.

As 2022 comes to a close, this is the time that IHE programs begin to provide info sessions for prospective families as well as open up their applications for new students. Continue reading to find out more about important dates and deadlines, the application process for each program, and ways to get your questions answered.
